Please e-mail your presentations to andrew.conway@marine.ie to transfer them on to the presentation computer or bring them at registration on a memory stick for transfer.

Presentations should cover:

- Remit of your institute.
- Locations of platforms and sensors (or geographic coverage of the dataset).
- Range of parameters collected with temporal resolution.
- Does your institute have an official data policy and if so what is it?
- Availability of data (restrictions on use or embargo periods)?
- What in house data management is currently in place (levels of processing and quality control)?
- How your data are served (web download, emailed request etc.)?
- Is the data routinely provided to any international projects, partners or infrastructure?
- Any issues or problems experienced that others in the group may have encountered?

For those travelling from the UK

The three closest airports to Galway are; Dublin, Shannon and Ireland West, all of which have bus links to Galway or the option to hire a car:

- Dublin Airport. Approximately 2hrs by car from Oranmore, or 3hrs by bus
 - Buses from Dublin airport to Galway are operated by GoBus (<http://www.gobus.ie>), CityLink (<http://www.citylink.ie>) and by Bus Eireann (<http://www.buseireann.ie>). The price of a return bus ticket is around €15. From the bus station in Galway there are regular services to Oranmore, and as the bus station in Galway is adjacent to the rail station it is also possible to complete the journey by train. Oranmore rail station is about 500m outside the village.
 - It is also possible to catch an airport bus to Dublin Heuston station and get a train to either Oranmore or Galway.
 - Not all Dublin to Galway services stop at Oranmore, so it is necessary to consult the schedule in advance as you may need to change trains at Athenry.
- Shannon Airport Approximately 1hr by car from Oranmore, or 1hr 50mins by bus
 - Bus Eireann (<http://www.buseireann.ie>) operates a service from Shannon to Galway city, which stops in Oranmore (and every other town and village along the way). The Shannon to Galway service operates every hour from 07:55 to 20:55 and a return ticket costs around €21.
- Ireland West Airport, Knock Approximately 1hr 15mins by car from Oranmore, or 2h 45mins by bus
 - Bus links to Knock airport are through Galway city and the Bus Eireann website (<http://www.buseireann.ie>) should be consulted for detailed information.
